Doing Good and Avoiding Evil in Voting

The first principle of morality is to do good and avoid evil. We cannot really do this unless we know what good things ought to be sought, and what evils are to be avoided entirely, or tolerated for a time under certain circumstances.

In all of this Catholic teaching gives us concrete guidance.

Catechism of the Catholic Church 1706.

By his reason, man recognizes the voice of God which urges him "to do what is good and avoid what is evil." Everyone is obliged to follow this law, which makes itself heard in conscience and is fulfilled in the love of God and of neighbor. Living a moral life bears witness to the dignity of the person.

Catholics Must Form Their Consciences by Church Teaching

This obligation flows from the virtue of faith since belief in Christ is also belief in the Church and Christ's promises to the Church. This teaching can be found in Sacred Scripture and Sacred Tradition, which includes the formal teaching of Popes and Councils regarding what has been revealed.

Citizens Have Co-Responsibility for Society

This especially obliges those in a democracy who must elect representatives to run the State on their behalf. The duty to vote obliges depending on the issue and the worthiness of the candidates. It is more seriously obliged when a good candidate is opposed by an unworthy one,

One may not vote for an enemy of religion or freedom, therefore, except to exclude a worse enemy of religion and freedom. In such a case, the exclusion of the worst candidate is the object, which is intended, not the evils the less bad candidate might do

In determining which candidate is a threat to religion and liberty, or, which of several candidates the worse threat is, non-negotiables issues outweigh negotiable issues, since 1) Non-negotiables concern certain truths and are always morally applicable, while 2) Negotiable policy issues involve differing opinions about the best means to the end in complex circumstances.

Faith and Politics: Navigating an Election Season as a Catholic

With the 2024 Presidential election just around the corner and political tensions higher than ever, Busted Halo acknowledges that this can be a difficult time for Catholics as they decide on a presidential candidate. As Catholics, our faith helps us sort out the many complicated issues we face during an election and leads us to an informed decision about which candidate to vote for.

We hope these resources might prove helpful for you and your loved ones during this time, and we'll keep all of you in our prayers as you seek to inform your conscience, discern, and cast your ballot. <https://bustedhalo.com/ministry-resources/faith-and-politics-navigating-an-election-season-as-a-catholic>

Ongoing support for paving lot project has reached $97,926 of of $253,500 for SHC share. The new bid is for $506,696 for a longer term solution. When completed next summer, the parking lot will be leveled, lines for parking painted, and entry way from Peger will be widened. Thank you.
